Extraction Details

When using gas cooking equipment, an acceptable and effective means of air extraction over the gas appliances should be used. The gas supply into the kitchen should include a suitable and accessible shut off valve, positioned near an emergency exit from the kitchen. In addition there should be a knock off button which, when activated, cuts off the gas supply to the kitchen. To comply with current British Standards and Cong. recommendations, the kitchen extract fan control should be interlocked with an isolation device that controls the gas supply into the kitchen whereby isolating the incoming gas supply until the kitchen extract fan is operated. It is also a requirement when using gas equipment that a suitable and effective means of air replacement is incorporated that returns at least 80% of the air being exhausted back into the kitchen. We strongly recommend that each gas appliance has its own individual isolation valve.

Note: PPS does not include for the provision of isolation valves or knock off buttons, and any related electrical wiring to fan controllers, fans, isolators or knock off buttons.

Grease Interceptors

As of April 1, 2002 UK building regulations, hot food premises require the installation of a suitable Grease Interceptor(s) in the waste water system(s), thus reducing the disposal of grease into the sewerage system. Appropriate units have been included in this design where necessary, and constitute an integral part of the installation. PPS will include them in their quotation(s), but will take no responsibility for approval by the appropriate authority, if the client decides to omit them from the installation or prefers to install alternative equipment.

Wall Shelves & Brackets

Clients must ensure that all walls (either solid or stud construct) are sufficiently strong enough or suitably supported to accept wall shelves & brackets when loaded. PPS will decline to mount wall shelves & brackets if, in their view, the walls are deemed unsuitable, nor will PPS accept responsibility for any damage caused due to overloading.

Note:

- Do not scale drawing.
- Drawing is subject to further site survey.
- When installing ventilation canopy a safety gas interlock must be fitted.
- The minimum height from the top of the extraction canopy to the finished floor level must be 2m.

Home Office online right to work checking service

As an alternative to providing a copy of the documents listed above, applicants may demonstrate their right to work by allowing the licensing authority to carry out a check with the Home Office online right to work checking service.

To demonstrate their right to work via the Home Office online right to work checking service, applicants should include in this application their 9-digit share code (provided to them upon accessing the service at <https://www.gov.uk/prove-right-to-work>) which, along with the applicant's date of birth (provided within this application), will allow the licensing authority to carry out the check.

In order to establish the applicant's right to work, the check will need to indicate that the applicant is allowed to work in the United Kingdom and is not subject to a condition preventing them from doing work relating to the carrying on of a licensable activity.

An online check will not be possible in all circumstances because not all applicants will have an immigration status that can be checked online. The Home Office online right to work checking service sets out what information and/or documentation applicants will need in order to access the service. Applicants who are unable to obtain a share code from the service should submit copy documents as set out above.
