

Register of Interest and/or Other paid employment

The need to declare and store personal interests in a register helps the Council and its holders of public office to meet the high standards expected. These are set out in the Local Government Association's code of ethics in the public sector, as well as the seven 'Nolan principles': selflessness, integrity, objectivity, accountability, openness, honesty and leadership.

A 'personal interest' is any private arrangement or association which an SCC employee (or their spouse/partner) has outside their SCC employment, which exercises some influence on their private life and, which may potentially impact their SCC employment or duties. Secondary employment or running one's own business, are particularly significant personal interests in terms of influence. But some memberships and relationships may also constitute 'personal interests'.

Registering any outside interests or secondary employment is a contractual requirement and an important part of maintaining transparency and public trust. Failure to comply may result in disciplinary action. It is also a requirement of every officer's SCC contract paragraph 20: During your employment, unless you have our prior written permission, you must not be involved in any business or activity which in our reasonable opinion affects your ability to devote the whole of your time and attention during working hours to our business or conflicts with the interests of or causes damage to our goodwill. You must give us full details of your involvement in outside employment or business.

Register of Outside Interests –what is a 'conflict of interest'?

Conflicts of interest may occur if a decision of the Council could affect you, or close friends and relatives, either positively or negatively; or, if your association with a person or organisation might influence your council duties. Interests could include:

- involvement with businesses which have existing or proposed contracts with the Council;
- membership of organisations or groups which may oppose Council policies;
- membership of secret organisations such as the Freemasons which may be perceived to have loyalties that overrule its members' employee loyalties to their employers;

- roles undertaken outside of work (e.g. acting as a school governor, member of an NHS trust board, Chamber of Commerce);
- close personal friendship or relationship with other SCC senior officers or councillors or Council suppliers.

You should ask yourself the questions:

All completed forms must be filed on the register of interests.

All perceived, potential or actual conflicts of interest must be resolved by the Council.

The manager and Head of HR should arrange a meeting with the officer to discuss the conflict of interest and discuss options to eliminate the conflict within a mutually agreeable timescale. The Council's overriding priority, in accordance with the code of ethics and Nolan principles, is to protect the public purse and its reputation. In extremis, if the perceived conflict of interest cannot be resolved by mutual agreement, the Head of HR and CEO/Personnel Cttee Chair, will take whatever action best protects the Council, which may include dismissal. Failure to declare an interest is also a disciplinary matter; failure to declare a conflict of interest is a serious disciplinary matter.
